LEGISLATURE MAY STOP LA FOLLETTE

So-called Interests Believed to Be Active in Wisconsin.

SITUATION A NATIONAL ONE

Meetings in Various Parts of State on the Verge of Election, Prove Strength Behind Famous Candidate and Bring Out Many Phases of the Campaign.

By WILLIS J. ABBOT.
Madison, Wis., Sept. 6.—The night I reached Madison there was a great meeting in the gymnasium of the University of Wisconsin addressed by Senator Cummins, Congressman Norris, and by Frank J. Heney, the indomitable prosecutor of graft in California. The meeting was held for the purpose of arousing public sentiment in behalf of the re-election to the United States Senate of Robert M. La Follette.

On the same night in other Wisconsin cities, Senators Dooliver, Clapp, and Borah were speaking. It seemed extraordinary that such endeavors should be necessary to persuade the voters of a State to send to the Senate of the nation a man who is eclipsed in national reputation by few if any of the oldest members of that distinguished body.

May Defy Primary Mandate.
But as a matter of fact, the fight that is being made in La Follette's behalf is nationally necessary. The people have elected him at the primaries, but it is believed here that the legislature may refuse to obey the plainly announced command of the voters.

The so-called "interests," not merely of Wisconsin, but of the nation, are assisting the La Follette opposition with money and with influence. The plan of campaign is to concentrate all influence, power, endeavor, and funds upon the effort to elect members of the legislature who will refuse to favor another term for "Fighting Bob."

The situation is one of vital interest to every American, whether he lives in Maine, Texas, or Oregon. We have seen the legislature of Illinois debauched in the interest of a senatorial candidate, and the whole country has read the evidence set forth in court of that debauchery; but the Illinois situation does not compare with what is threatened in Wisconsin. Neither does the resentment of the people of Illinois, so far as I can judge it at the present moment, parallel that which will be manifested in the Badger State if there shall be an attempt in the legislature to defeat the expressed will of the voters at the primaries.

Insurgency Not Rooseveltism.
The fact that such distinguished representatives of what is called the insurgent movement as Dooliver, Bristow, Cummins, Heney, Clapp, Pinchot, and Garfield have been speaking in Wisconsin for La Follette, and the further fact that all of these men are regarded as friends and supporters of Theodore Roosevelt has led to a certain feeling—not merely in this State, but in others—that insurgencies necessarily means Rooseveltism. On this subject I talked at some length last night with two of the men whose names I have just mentioned. Neither can be quoted here literally, but this was the proposition on which both agreed.

In the so-called insurgent movement you cannot name one man who has tried to make it his own or to distort it or utilize it for his own personal advantage. We have had in the Senate a half dozen men and in the House many more; yet you cannot, with all the political knowledge you may possess, point to any one man and say he is the leader of the insurgent movement. We hold that we are working shoulder to shoulder. We recognize no captains, but we recognize comrades. Mr. Roosevelt has shown in personal conversation his thorough sympathy with our beliefs and purposes. He has spoken to our associates and referred to them as "our fellows," while referring to the standpoint element as "the other fellows," but all the same we do not believe that the progressive movement in the Republican party is likely to be dominated by Mr. Roosevelt or by any other one man. If you will look back over political history in the last two years you will see that insurgencies developed while Mr. Roosevelt was not merely out of the White House, but out of the country.

A Hard Man to Control.
Continuing, my informant said: "While we admire Mr. Roosevelt, value his aid, and recognize the tremendous following which he has and which he can bring to the advantage to the principles for which we stand, should he again become President. If it should turn out to be a straight fight between Taft and Roosevelt for the nomination in 1912, it would put all of us in a very hard position. It is easier to handle, to influence, to dominate a man of the Taft type than it would be to control Theodore Roosevelt were he again in power. You can safely and emphatically say that the effort of certain publications to make it appear that the insurgent movement exists for the chief purpose of re-electing Roosevelt President is without justification. It is resented by the men most actively concerned in that movement."

SIXTY HELD FOR MURDER.
Rome, Sept. 6.—The police of Pella, Calabria, have arrested several emigrants who recently returned from the United States on suspicion of being implicated in the murder of Giuseppe Rugolino, a forest guard, his wife, and six children. Sixty arrests have been made. The crime, which is attributed to the "Black Hand," was uncovered early yesterday morning. The neighbors of Rugolino, who spent a number of years in America, heard pleading shrieks from the hut where the man lived, and on approaching were horrified to find the forest guard lying dead in a pool of blood with his head almost severed from his body. Near his lifeless body lay a hatchet with which he had been hacked and chopped in the most horrible manner.

FOUND DEAD IN FIELD.
Special to The Washington Herald.
Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 6.—George Lohr, aged eighty-five, a well-known farmer, was found dead in a field near his home, north of Timberville, Rockingham County, to-day. He was never sick a day in his life. It is supposed that he was overcome by heat. He leaves six children, including Arthur B. Lohr, of Washington.

WOMAN ATTACKS BANKERS.
Uses Plots When Demand for Money Is Refused.
New York, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Ida Van Clausen called at the New York Mortgage and Trust Company, at 55 Liberty street, to-day in the interests of getting certain money that she holds is due her. She attempted to threaten Calvert Brewer, first vice president, and Carl G. Rasmus, second vice president of the institution, when her demand for $25,000 was refused. She was restrained by other officials or clerks.
Mrs. Van Clausen is the granddaughter of Michael Byrne, who on his death left an estate of $1,000,000 or more, including the Hotel Lorraine. Mr. Van Clausen has an eighth interest in the estate, of which the United States Mortgage and Trust Company is the trustee.

ADDRESS OF ROOSEVELT ON NATIONAL CONSERVATION

St. Paul, Sept. 6.—Colonel Roosevelt, in his conservation speech to-day, complimented President Taft, though differing with him on the question of Federal authority. He said: "America's reputation for efficiency stands deservedly high throughout the world. We are efficient probably to the full limit that any nation can attain by the methods hitherto used. There is great reason to be proud of our achievements, and yet no reason to believe that we cannot excel our past. Through a practically unrestrained individualism we have reached a pitch of literally unexampled material prosperity, although the distribution of this prosperity leaves much to be desired from the standpoint of justice and fair dealing."

Corporations and Waste.
"But we have not only allowed the individual a free hand, which was, in the main, right; we have also allowed great corporations to act as though they were individuals, and exercise the rights of individuals. In addition to using the vast combined power of high organization and enormous wealth for their own advantage. This development of corporate action, it is true, is doubtless in large part responsible for the gigantic development of our natural resources, but it is not less responsible for waste, destruction, and monopoly on an equally gigantic scale."

Need of Federal Control.
"Who can best regulate the special interests for the public good? Most of the predatory corporations are interstate or have interstate affiliations. Therefore, they are largely out of reach of effective State control and fall of necessity within the Federal jurisdiction. One of the prime objects of those among them that are grasping and greedy is to avoid effective control either by State or nation; and they advocate at this time State control simply because they believe it to be the least effective. The most effective weapon against these great corporations, most of which are financed and owned on the Atlantic Coast, will be Federal laws and the Federal Executive."

Proof of National Duty.
"If any proof were needed that forest protection is a national duty, the recent destruction of forests in the West by fire would supply it. Even with the fire of the army added to that of the Forest Service the loss has been severe. Without either it would have been vastly greater."

Object of the Amendment.
"Congress passed the amendment. Its object was to put an end to the work of a number of commissions which had been appointed by the President, and whose contribution to the public welfare had been simply incalculable. Among these were the commission for reorganizing the business methods of the government, the public lands commission, the country life commission, and the national conservation commission itself."

Gardiner & Dent, Inc.

JUST ONE YEAR OLD.

WE WISH to thank our many friends for the expressions of praise we have received for the success of our first year in the Realty Field. We incorporated one year ago to-day to conduct a general Real Estate, Loan, and Insurance business, making a specialty of Renting and Selling.

The success of our first year has been far beyond our expectations and we believe it has been due to our painstaking effort to secure the right kind of property at the right prices, giving our clients the best and most advantageous investments.

Our Rental List is very extensive, comprising all classes of houses in every section of the city. This department is in charge of an experienced man, who gives his sole attention to this end of the business, thereby attending to all the details of repairs, &c. Remittances made on day of payment of Rent.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.
SEPTEMBER AT THE SEASHORE.

REDUCED FARES ACCOUNT G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

The rolling ocean, with its boundless prospect, is ever interesting; but at no time is it more enticing than during the month of September. The bathing is at its best. The sailing is ideal. The salt sea air is charged with increased invigoration, and there is a geniality about it unknown during the torrid days of summer.

Atlantic City, Ocean City, Sea Isle City, Avalon, Stone Harbor, Anglesea, Wildwood, Holly Beach, Wildwood Crest, and Cape May are all prepared to entertain with exceptional hospitality all guests who may come. The hotels are less crowded and more comfortable, the service is better, and in most instances the rates are lower.

The train service of the Pennsylvania Railroad to all these resorts will be found convenient and comprehensive.

Excursion tickets to Atlantic City will be sold at reduced fares on September 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, on account of the G. A. R. National Encampment, good returning to reach original starting point not later than September 28. For stop-over privileges and extension of return limit to October 28, consult Ticket Agents.

Unusual enjoyment awaits the September sojourner by the sea.

ST. PAUL GIVES COLONEL BIG DAY

terized Roosevelt as a master mind and leader. Representative Oille James, of Kentucky, refused to act as a filler-in, and it took some persuasions to set the venerable James J. Hill on his feet. Mr. Hill did not speak, for Mr. Roosevelt bounced through the side door just then. The great auditorium boomed and reverberated with cheers.
President Baker, of the Conservation Congress, introduced Mr. Roosevelt briefly. The colonel arose only to wait for another ovation.
"What I have to say will be but a repetition of what was so admirably said on this platform by the President of the United States yesterday," he began. "All friends of conservation should be in hearty sympathy with that part of the President's address which he laid down in connection with coal oil and phosphate lands. And I am glad to say that at the last session Congress finally completed the work of separating the surface of the land from the minerals beneath it." Mr. Roosevelt got out the railroad, James J. Hill sat directly to his left, and the railroad man clapped his hands occasionally. The colonel told the crowd that unless the people prevent it the railroads will attempt to get control of the waterways as fast as they are improved and completed.

"And I wouldn't blame them," he exclaimed. "If we the people are supine in the matter, I blame us for allowing them to do it."

Rebuke for Taft.
Representative Tawney, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, provoked Mr. Roosevelt's disfavor when he secured an amendment to an appropriation bill, forbidding the expenditure of public funds for any commission not created by law.

"At the moment when the commission was ready to begin the campaign for putting its programme into effect," the colonel said hotly, "an amendment to the sundry civil service bill was introduced by a Representative from Minnesota, with the purpose of putting a stop to the work so admirably begun."
